

International Meeting on

TRADITIONAL & ALTERNATIVE MEDICINE

July 23-24, 2018 | Osaka, Japan

The application of traditional medicine with chronic motor disorders

Angelica Kokkalis
Han Institute, USA

This workshop will unveil the clinical use of research that was conducted at Peking University Health and Science, Department of Neuroscience. Prof Han Ji Sheng and his associates have spent over 50 years researching the mechanism of acupuncture and the benefits of electrostimulation of different frequencies. This introduction will help physicians in a very unique way to understand the benefits of the HANS protocols. This can be a two to four hour workshop introducing the use of the HANS Protocols in the Western clinic. Commonly treated conditions like chronic pain management, Stroke, PTSD, Stress, will be demonstrated as well the best and finest solution to the drug epidemic. The latest research will also be introduced in the treatment of Autism Spectrum Disorders and also the benefits of acupuncture with electrostimulation before and after IVF.

angelicakokkalis@gmail.com